"We must reach out to all peoples to manifest all combined energies for the life of water and Mother Earth."

Josephine Mandamin

Josephine Mandamin, a revered grandmother and teacher of the Anishinawbe people, has walked around all five Great Lakes and twice around Lake Michigan to raise public awareness about the importance and fragility of our fresh water.

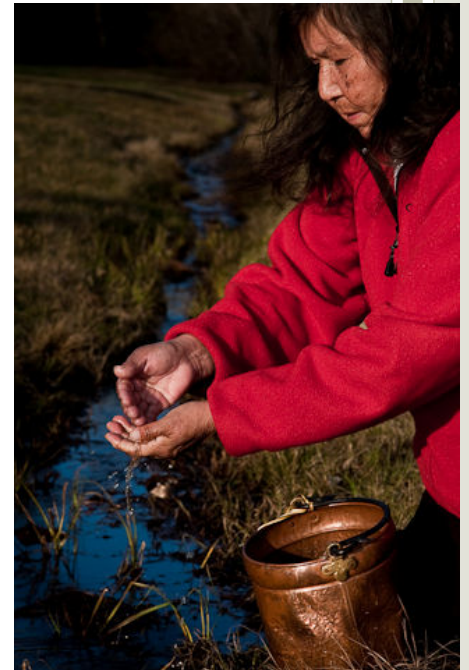

While in Milwaukee looking out over Lake Michigan, Josephine had a vision. It was to build a teaching lodge on Milwaukee's lakefront.

You are invited to join us for this important planning meeting to learn about the vision of this lodge and how your participation will insure the implementation of this historic event.

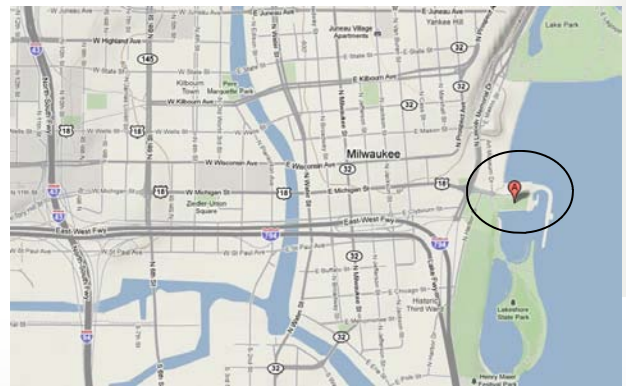

The intention of the Lodge is to serve as a gathering place for all tribes to meet to reintroduce our teachings and ceremonies to ourselves and others who wish to know more about indigenous culture and knowledge.

Let's stand together to help this vision come alive!

Please pass this on to others whom you think this gathering will benefit!
